SATURDAY, FEB. 19, 1859. exhibit the same capacity to be honest that it does to find excuses for plunder and axtravagance, it might lead an honest life and keep out of the penitentiary. The Naw York Journal of Commerce be-gins to appreciate "the benefits and the substantial stages arising from an exhausted treasury, and faids some compensation for the poverty of the national exchequer "in the good infinances which it is likely to exert upon the public morals, and the States, to be a corollary that as "there is no money in the treasury of Commerce, it is this the country is bankrupt— the barpies have clawed up avery cramb—we may lament the fact, but it brings compensation in the good influences it is likely to exert upon public mor-ale, and the future practical application of rigid principles of Democratic government. This demon-strates that the more the people are robbed the mor-rigid Democracy will flourish. Like the Oriental or to tear down or good influences it is likely to exert upon public morandal-wood, the harder the pressure upon the pub- the elec--"stealing and giving odor "

The Federal Treasury is a xhausted; our government expenses largely excend its revenues, and hy liberality of we are resorting to the prodigal's expedient of bor-riwing monay to pay for current necessities. In should to examine the causes which have produced it and trace the axtravagance and reckless exponditure to its proper source, that responsibility control to their common country. depredators. The clerk of the House of Represen-tatives has just published his annual report of the Yora Tribune say under date of the 17th costingent expenses of that body. Among the items we find one of $70,571 50 for furniture, exclusive of that for the new hall. There were purchased 237 h ir brushes and 284 combs, costing $531 twenty French plate murrors, costing $4,495, and one at $1,350; twenty one sets of curtains at $3,280; five c ocks at $595. fifty-four chairs at $2,456, an averare of $48.50 each; twenty-five sofes and lounges at $2.565; a pierre table at $275; carpets at $4.25 pryard, three bookcases at $1,160; washitunds at $65 each; brouze statuetts, clothes racks, writing tables, ice petchers, &c., at equally axtravagan prices. And these a a simply the contingent expenses of the flouse. Is it any wonder that we are pow as a mation or that politicians have become elegant and valuable present, which we shall prize and church the more because it is the gift of one who has maver placed it in our power to do him a favor, and who has been attracted to us solely by the noble impulses of his heart. Though born in a foreign land, the donor is lilled with vigorous senti-ments of true Americanism, and loves the country of his adoption with an Intensity which puts to shame many of nature limence, who have permitted the ices of party to grow like taras among the harvest slds of true republicanism planted by our fathers. He has chosen us as a medium to speak to the American l'eople lecuuse he sympathizes in our po-litical course and believes that foreign influence is the great dan, or in our onward career of national glory and the universal development of the self-governing capacity of man. He has lived long count to see descriptions crashed and the spirit of nalarged progress developed in Europe, and in his age he idolizes the city of refuge, where tolerant customs and mild laws give to each indwoller the most perfect liberty and the safest guaranties of protection is the pursuit of happiness. When we feel a justitiable pride in having awakened the rea sect of the donor, and it shall atimulate us in futur near and dear to his heart. The medal weighs over side is a central sun from which rave are diffused to stars around the circumference emblematic of the States of the Union, and on the other is engraved the national Eagle, with its emblems as the "thunder bearer," the emblazoned shield, and its thirteea stripes for the original confederacy. At each cardimal point are scraphin and cherubin, bearing wreaths of peace to every quarter of the world and shedding the light of their halos around the proud emtlems of our country. The design is simple, but comprehensive and eloquent in its silent appeals to
